Administrative Overhead

AAPCI maintains an average administrative overhead of 8 percent – ensuring our service recipients receive 92 percent of all services and donations.

The “working poor” represents 10 percent of the families we serve. These are families who maintain regular employment but remain in relative poverty due to low incomes and dependent expenses. “Low-income” families represent 90 percent of our service recipients. These are families with little or no education and/or employment skills, receive public assistance, have dependent expenses and are struggling to navigate through their life’s circumstance. The majority of these families are headed by single mothers who need assistance and someone to help them find a way out of poverty.
